Cone Mills Corporation donated the towels.

Cone Mills Golf Tourney Gets Underway May 18

Annual Cone Mills Golf Tournament, sponsored by the Proximity Y's Men's Club, will begin May 18. Qualifying rounds will be played at the Green Valley Golf Course during the week of May 10 to May 17.

The tournament is being held somewhat earlier this year to try and avoid the hot weather. Entry blanks are available at the Proximity Y.M.C.A., White Oak Y.M.C.A., or any plant personnel office. All entries must be turned in by May 17, 1953.

Awards will be presented to the winners and runners-up at a banquet given by the Y's Men's Club at the end of the tournament. T. H. Ward is the chairman of the tournament. Working with him are Howard Garner, Fay Gilbert, and Curtis May.

SPORTS

Softball

There will be a meeting of all softball team managers next week. Teams expected to be entered are White Oak Acorns, Proximity Whiz Kids, Revolution Old Timers, and Revolution, Nash Collins.

Others interested in having a team contact the Physical Department at the Y.

Swim Pageant To Be At White Oak Y May 7

The Girls Physical Department of Cone Y.M.C.A. will present a swimming pageant at the White Oak Y, May 7, at 7:30 p.m. Title of the pageant is "Fun with Music."

Highlights of the program include two numbers by Y girls entitled, "America, the Beautiful" and "Sugar Blues."

There will also be two novelty races by the Y elementary and junior high girls. Woman's College will bring a portion of their Dolphin-Seal Club to present two numbers, a spiritual and a square dance, along with fancy diving. This performance is free and everyone is cordially invited to attend.

WHITE OAK SUGGESTION—Edwin Smith, slubber fixer at White Oak Plant, suggested that the fixers replace the bottom cots on the slubbers instead of waiting for the man from the Roller Shop to do this. This has increased slubber production. Mr. Smith received a cash award for his suggestion.

Plant Injuries Show Slight Reduction

A tabulation of disabling injuries to Cone employees during the first quarter of 1953 shows that the Company-wide accident frequency (disabling injuries per million man hours worked) is 11.3. This is a slight improvement over the 1952 frequency of 12.1 but is not yet down to national textile manufacturing frequency of 9.9.

A brief study of our record shows that, for the first quarter, six of our units operated 428,000 man hours without a disabling injury, while 11 of our units operated for 2,417,000 man hours with nine lost time injuries, giving them a combined frequency of 3.8.

Edna and Granite plants were still in the perfect record column at the end of the quarter. (And still had their records when The Textorian went to press.) Knox (Outside Construction) was also back—at least briefly—in the "no accident" division, while Pineville, Tabardrey, and Revolution Rayon were showing better accident prevention records than for last year at this time. Proximity, while having a high score, was improved over 1952, but White Oak, Minneola, Randleman, Power Plant, Print Works and Revolution Flannel showed various degrees of backsliding.

A scoreboard of the present accident prevention standing of each unit appears on the newest accident bulletin, bearing the date of April 22, 1953. At the bottom is this note: "Good housekeeping, good habits and good attitudes can make these figures grow better as the year grows older."

Born 500 Yrs. Too Soon

You have another think coming if you believe: The Wright Brothers flew the first airplane—The tank was introduced in World War I—The Gatling Gun was the first machine gun—because you would be wrong. These, and many other inventions by Leonardo da Vinci (famous for such works of art as "Mona Lisa" and "The Last Supper") and the 500th anniversary of whose birth in 1452 is still being celebrated) were first conceived just about the time Christopher Columbus was stubbing his nautical toe on the American continent while hunting for the Indies. And that nag-frightener, the horseless carriage of the 1890's, has to take a backseat, too, because Leonardo designed the first mechanical car.

Leonardo's notebooks, filled with sketches of his inventions, ideas and improvements of already-existing devices, are crammed with such foresighted things as air conditioners, triple-tiered machine guns—one group of barrels could be fired while the second cooled and the third was being loaded—airplanes, anatomical drawings that are still in use in some medical schools, designs for two-level highways for pedestrian and vehicular traffic, as well as that indispensable and perhaps too-familiar roadside instrument, the jack.

Today, the American people have the opportunity of seeing these drawings brought to life. Despite the obstacles of war, time and the difficulty of translating Leonardo's unique right-to-left mirror writing, working models of his inventions are now being displayed throughout the United States.

In 1938, the city of Milan, Italy, held a great exhibition of full-scale reconstructions of the works of Leonardo. A panel of outstanding scholars, scientists and engineers from many countries approved the plans for each of the replicas and their construction was carried out in meticulous detail under the supervision of a young engineer, Dr. Roberto Guatelli.

Early in 1939, a part of this exhibition was put on display at the former Museum of Science and Industry in Rockefeller Center, New York. When World War II broke out, the exhibition was shipped to Japan. During heavy bombing attacks in the late stages of the war, the models were destroyed on the grounds of the Italian Embassy. Dr. Guatelli, who had accompanied the exhibit to Japan, was confined in a concen-

Six Delegates Attend Y's Men's Conference

Six members of the Proximity Y's Men's Club attended the Piedmont District Y's Men's Conference in Draper last Saturday.

John Eggleston from Leaksville was re-elected district governor for the coming year. The conference ended with a banquet Saturday night. The main speaker was Lawrence Strunk from Kannapolis, who is the regional director for the Southeastern Region.

Members attending from the Proximity Club were: Curtis May, George Nance, Edgar Gardner, Archie Baynes, Wade Jenkins and Fred Ziprik.

Excello, Manhattan To Use Cone Fabric

NEW YORK, April 28 — Two new shirtings developed by Cone Mills, containing 65 percent Dacron and 35 percent combed cotton will make their appearance in new lines offered by Excello and Manhattan this fall. The new basket-weave fabric for Excello will be known as "Excel-Weave." Manhattan will promote an oxfordweave fabric under the name "Manweave."

The blend and spinning technique was developed after more than a year of experimentation. Chief properties are that a shirt of these fabrics may be hand or machine washed at home, hung soaking wet on a hanger and be ready to wear in about 6 or 7 hours without ironing. Should it be desirable, the shirt may be sent to a regular laundry.

Entre Nous Have Lunch For Bosses

Approximately 100 bosses and their right-hand assistants attended the Entre Nous Club's annual Bosses' Luncheon today at Proximity Y.M.C.A. This is the occasion when the girls invite their bosses to join them at lunch, just to enjoy themselves.

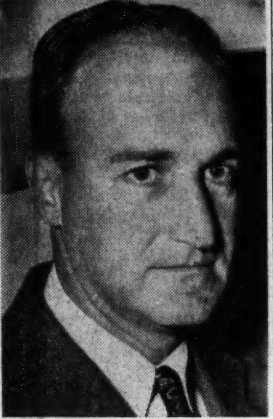

A skit, dramatizing a typical Cone Mills executive giving dictation, was presented by James Marvin and Mrs. Marie Seabolt.

Pony League

The athletic committee of the board of directors of the Proximity Y's Men's Club is asking all boys 13 and 14 years of age in the Proximity, Revolution, Print Works, White Oak and Edgeville communities who are interested in playing baseball in the Pony League this summer to meet at the Proximity Y Monday evening, May 4, at 4:30. Plans are underway to sponsor this team to compete in this league sponsored by the City Recreation Department.

Cone Official To Address Industrial Safety Group

Jesse Wharton Co-ed Club Has Outing

All members of the Jesse Wharton seventh grade club and their teacher, Miss Walker, enjoyed a hike, picnic and scavenger hunt last Tuesday afternoon. During the scavenger hunt articles such as bark, flowers, insects and nuts were to be found. To add to the amusement of scores, some of the boys showed up with crawfish and frogs.

This is a Co-ed Club under the direction of Mrs. Frances Funderburk and Wayne Cates. Approximately 40 members and guests participated.

Revival Starts Sunday At Church of God

Revival services will begin Sunday, May 3, at the Church of God, 200 State Street. Reverend William H. Mahaffey, of Berea, Kentucky, a young minister of proven ability, will bring the evangelistic messages.

Choir and special singing will be featured each evening with services at 10:00 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Rev. John L. Byrd, pastor, invites the public to attend.

MECHANICAL GENIUS—(top row, left to right) A self-portrait of Leonardo da Vinci, whose birth 500 years ago the world is celebrating in 1953. He has been described as having possessed "a genius for art and science unparalleled in any other individual in history." Famous for his paintings of the "Mona Lisa" and "The Last Supper," it is only recently that Leonardo's achievements in many fields of science have been made known. Models built from his scientific sketches are now being shown throughout the United States by the International Business Machines Corp. They will be in Charlotte and Chapel Hill in May and June. A cutaway view of the enclosed tank, with breech-loading cannon, invented by Leonardo da Vinci. Its mobility was based on four independent wheels driven by manpower. Its shape was designed to withstand the impact of the cannon balls of that day. At the top is a sketch by Leonardo da Vinci of his triple-tiered machine gun from which Dr. Roberto Guatelli, noted Leonardo scholar, made the model shown beneath it. To the left of Leonardo's sketch is a sample of his right-to-left mirror writing. The models and reproductions of the original Leonardo manuscript sketches are now being exhibited throughout the country. (The sketch is reproduced from Leonardo's notebook edition, II Codice Atlantico, Milano, Hoepli, 1894-1904.) This machine gun had twelve guns in each of its three tiers. One tier was to be fired while a second was being loaded and the third was cooling. (bottom row, left to right) Leonardo da Vinci's variable speed drive meshed three cogged wheels of different diameters with the same lantern wheel to obtain different speeds of rotation. The idea is found in our modern automobile. Leonardo da Vinci's airplane consisted of a wooden board, two huge wings, a series of ropes and pulleys and a windlass. Lying prone on the board, his feet in leather stirrups connected by pulleys to the wings, the flyer was to move his feet up and down to flap the wings, while at the same time he was to operate the windlass with his arms and furnish motive power to raise the machine and propel himself through the air. There is a record of a flight in this or a similar machine by one of Leonardo's pupils or servants. After a sustained flight of a short duration, the early airplane crashed and the aviator said to have suffered broken legs; the first crash on record since Icarus, the boy who flew too close to the sun and fell when his wax wings melted. This car, designed to be driven by springs, is the first known example of a mechanically driven vehicle. It is not known whether it was ever actually constructed in Leonardo's time. Similar vehicles, however, operated by the same principle, were used by the Japanese during the latter stages of World War II.

Revolution Friends Meet In Service In Austria

When Pfc. William (Bill) Green Cagle, former employee in the Carding Department at Revolution Division Flannel Plant, now in Austria, learned from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Cagle, 1917 Bradford Street, that his old buddy, Ralph Gregory, who used to work in the Revolution Weaving Department, was also stationed in Austria, he was overjoyed. About the same time Pfc. Cagle got this news, Pfc. Gregory heard from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Gregory, 1628 Rankin Street, that Bill was in that area.

The two Rankin High School graduates looked up each other, and since that happy day have been seeing the sights of the ancient and colorful city of Salzburg.

The two servicemen have written about their appreciation of The Textorian while they are away from home. They say that the paper keeps them in touch with the folks back home and keeps them from becoming quite so homesick.

Pfc. Cagle's father is now employed in the Carding Department at Revolution, and his mother, in the Spinning Department there. Pfc. Gregory's father runs a sanforizer at the Revolution Flannel Plant.

Bill worked at Revolution about two years before he went into service. He has been in Austria since last August. Ralph, who worked in the Weaving Department in the same plant, arrived in Austria in December.

These local men would appreciate letters from their friends. Their addresses are:

Pfc. William G. Cagle, U. S. 53103769, Co. K, 350th Inf. Div., A.P.O. 541, c/o P.M., New York, N. Y.

No Reason To Be Proud

Greensboro has no reason to be proud over the turn out at the polls last Monday. The election of the City Council is an important matter. The affairs of the city affect all the citizens in many ways. Certainly those who are responsible for conducting city business should be elected by a high percentage of the citizens and not by such a very small number as went to the polls last Monday.

Although the vote in the entire city was woefully small, we believe that precincts 1, 2 and 3 won the prize for the smallness of their vote.

It is to be hoped that on next Tuesday considerably more interest will be demonstrated in the affairs of the city than was evidenced last Monday. We particularly urge the residents in precincts 1, 2 and 3 to take advantage of their great privilege of free voting and urge them to go to the polls and vote for the candidates they consider best fitted to serve the whole of Greensboro.

We each have not only the privilege but also the obligation to take part in elections. Let's do our part.

LISTEN AMERICANS!

...by George S. Benson
President of Harding College

WASHINGTON—Did you get a grant-in-aid check from Uncle Sam last year? The chances are you paid a healthy slice of your income to the Federal government in taxes and received no grant of any kind. But in your state there was some Federal money paid, in subsidies, veterans benefits, welfare assistance, old age payments, and to the state government for highway construction, hydro-electric dams, etc.

The trouble is that for every $100 you and the people of your state sent to Washington in taxes, only $6.52 (on the average) came back. This wouldn't be bad if there weren't so many billions going to Washington and if the amount each of us sends in to Uncle Sam weren't such a big part of our total income. In fiscal 1951, the 48 states and Hawaii sent $65 billion to Washington and got back in "Federal aid" only $4.2 billion. This Federal tax is such a big percentage of our combined incomes that we're finding it almost impossible to raise enough local taxes to adequately operate the essential services of our own state and local governments.

That's true all over America. We're being drained of our taxpaying potential by Washington. And thus we're tempted more and more to run to Washington for the performance of services we should be doing for ourselves as individuals or through our local governments. The more we do this the more centralized our government becomes, the more power it has, and the less freedom we have.

President Eisenhower clearly recognizes this danger and is determined to do something about it. The President wants to turn the trend from centralized government. He has just asked Congress to create a commission to thoroughly study the present abnormal relationship between federal, state and local governments as regards responsibilities, tax sources and grants-in-aid. He told Congress the present situation is a "major national problem."

It has been my privilege recently to work with the National Council for Community Improvements which has these objectives: (1) To encourage more responsibility and self-reliance in local communities and the states; (2) to check the tide toward centralization of power in the Federal government; (3) to reduce pressure upon Congress exerted by communities to obtain Federal aid for local improvement projects; and (4) to urge greater economy in government spending.

Government is best when it is closest to the people. And man is free and happy when self-reliance is a basic attribute.

Pythian Echoes

by R. Cole Lee

A principle close to the Pythian Lodge is loyalty. Through loyalty we believe confidence can be created with those we have to do business. The other day an acquaintance of long standing came into my office, and after a few moments of idle talk, we launched into a more serious realm of thought. As we talked he brought up the subject most needed today in every phase of life — LOYALTY. Elbert Hubbard, the noted traveler and lecturer, puts it this way, I quote: "If you work for a man, in heaven's name work for him; speak well of him and stand by the institution he represents. Remember—an ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness. If you must growl, condemn, and eternally find fault, why—resign your position and when you are on the outside, damn to your heart's content—but as long as you are part of the institution do not condemn it; if you do, the first high wind that comes along will blow you away, and probably you will never know why." What do you say that we start now revealing our appreciation for the many privileges and opportunities by showing more loyalty and get off the road of being disgruntled.

On Sunday, May 3, the members of the Pythian Lodge will provide dinner for the men at the Cerebral Palsy Training Center. These men who volunteer their services in building this center deserve much credit and the thanks of the entire city should be given to them. Their efforts mean thousands of dollars saved that would otherwise go for labor but above all their time, effort and display of love will mean a place where the victims of this terrible enemy of humanity will receive abundant care and be nursed back to health. The members of the Lodge deem it a great honor to be called upon to do this little service for these gallant men.

Robert L. Holder, having successfully passed the Rank of Esquire, will now be given further consideration for the Rank of Knight at the next meeting of the Lodge. Fellows, in case you forget the next meeting is this coming Monday. Robert will soon leave for the service so let's give this young man an honest-to-goodness send off.

Have you attended the services at the Memorial Presbyterian Church on the McKnight Mill Road? If not, you are missing a great treat. It will do your heart good to hear a man unafraid to speak out. Come and you will find a most cordial welcome.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to extend my sincere appreciation for the many kindnesses extended my husband during his illness of nearly two years. Your generosity and consideration are appreciated more than I can express.

At our request, many who would have sent flowers for the funeral made donations to the Cancer Fund Campaign. Others may yet wish to do so.

I feel that in this way, the same funds can be used to greater advantage to the aid of others.

At the meeting it was decided by vote that each team should pay an entrance fee of $50.00 by the 24th of April.

The Granite softball team lost their first game of this week by a score of 15-14. Better luck next time, boys.

The Haw River P.T.A. met on Tuesday evening. Mr. Allan Young, the county educator, was the chief speaker. With the new water system and the sanitation being installed in the community, a great deal of emphasis is being placed on health standards for the community.

Tugman's Dogs Win Ribbons In Dog Shows

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Tugman showed three of their Pomeranians in the Wilson and Fayetteville shows last week and all three dogs won ribbons. "Sonny," male pomeranian, was judged best of winners in Fayetteville and Wilson and was best of breed in Wilson. The two females took first prizes in their classes, puppy and open bitch classes, respectively. Mr. and Mrs. Tugman are both members of the North Greensboro Kennel Club.

The North Greensboro Kennel Club is happy to announce that it has been decided to add another project to its ever growing list. This one will be along the humane line and will be known as the North Greensboro Kennel Club Dog Exchange. However, we wish to emphasize that we will buy no dogs or sell no dogs. If you desire to own a dog you may contact any member of the Club, giving them your name, address, phone number and the breed or type of dog you desire. This information will be turned over to Mrs. Anne Goodstein, secretary of this project, who will fill out a card for you and file it. As soon as we find a dog that will meet your requirements, you will be notified. The same procedure will apply to those people who have dogs they wish to dispose of.

To the children between the ages of ten and 18 who would like to take up Obedience Training, we urge you to register with Ray Tugman at White Oak Y. This should be done as soon as possible so we can have a class ready to start as soon as school is out. Remember we can take only about 24 to the class and first on the list will get first consideration.

The public is cordially invited to attend next Tuesday's meeting when the film, "Bringing Up Your Puppy," will be shown. Along with this film Miss Margaret Sanger of the Greymount Kennels will be guest speaker. The film is scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m.

The Salvation Army has been organized over 100 years and has been operating in the United States since 1880.

The speaker went into the program of the Army as related to their work with transients, family service work, welfare, missing persons and inquiry bureau. He cited examples of working with hospitalization cases, unmarried mothers, settlement housing, alcoholics, and the rehabilitation program of the U. S. Army.

At the close of the address a forum period was conducted in which questions were asked and answers given at various points, and how the clergy might assist stranded people who might come to them by referring them to the Salvation Army. The address was both informative and helpful in dealing with cases that our local churches come in contact with almost weekly.

And now the story of these models begins to take on that almost "fairy-tale" quality that clings to some of Leonardo's own fantastic insights. When Dr. Guatelli returned to Italy he found a request there from an American museum official, who was unaware that the models had been destroyed, to hold an exhibition of them. Dr. Guatelli, who is now in the process of becoming a citizen of the United States and is a resident of that part of the world that is perhaps beyond even Leonardo's powers of imagining—Brooklyn—immediately set to work recreating on a smaller but more accurate scale the amazing working models that bring to life Leonardo's genius. Working twenty to twenty-three hours a day for four months, Dr. Guatelli managed to have his new set of models ready for the museum showing. Early in 1951, the International Business Machines Corporation acquired the collection and is now showing it throughout the country in its local offices and in museums and colleges where everyone may see it, free of charge. It is being shown at Charlotte, then Chapel Hill during May and June.

Among the ideas that came newly-minted from Leonardo's mind, his aeronautical studies are the most intriguing, for they represent his obstacle-surmounting genius in its clearest form. He devised a parachute—or tent of linen, as he called it—and with it safely made a leap from a tower; his airplane, although it crashed after a short flight, was the fruit of his scientific treatment of the problem of flight. And we must bear in mind that he defined the now everyday principle of aerodynamic reciprocity 200 years before Newton.

We are all familiar today with the helicopter that reaches easily into the mountainous areas of the Korean battleground to pluck the wounded out from under enemy fire. Well, Leonardo foresaw this aircraft, too. His aerial screw is the forerunner of our helicopter, and its design makes it the prototype of today's ship's propeller as well.

"The fellow who's a 'good listener' is not only popular but he's liable to learn something!"

In addition to these great accomplishments, Leonardo devised a stage setting for a pageant put on during the wedding celebration of one of his patrons. Fittingly enough, it portrayed Paradise and the blinking stars of its surrounding firmament were lit by a thousand candles that burst into flame together, and sweet music filled the air from instruments of Leonardo's own contrivance.

Leonardo's genius is closest to us, perhaps, in his mechanical studies and devices. His studies of gears, for example, needed little development before finding themselves integral parts of twentieth-century machines. In addition to inventing the already-mentioned first mechanically driven car, he devised a transmission mechanism that is reproduced in today's automobile, and his rotating hoists differ only in details from the indispensable crane and steamshovel of our time.

Even in his military designs, we are astonished to find him close to us. His machine guns, steam guns and breech-loading cannons represented tremendous strides in armament making, and many of his ideas plainly foreshadowed today's developments. Perhaps the most startling of these are his armored car, ancestor of today's tank, and his mechanical bow that could hurl flaming projectiles and is suggestive of the modern flamethrower.

Among the things that held Leonardo back from the full realization of his inventive genius, which as we have seen far outstripped the facilities of his time, were, it has been said, a compact power unit and a metal sufficiently hard for his needs. Nevertheless, carried on in a spirit of free inquiry, his work has meant much to the generations that followed him, and the IBM collection of his models brings this home most forcefully to everyone who has seen it.

In addition to his other amazing achievements, Leonardo designed canals that are still in use in Italy. From his study of fish forms, he created the spindle-shaped hull to replace the round-bottomed hull used in the ships of his time. This gave the vessels more balance and less friction against the water, which meant increased safety and speed for mariners—and a vital advance in the economy of that society. Some of his other achievements are worth noting: he described the rings in trees in relation to the years of their growth; he observed and noted for the first time the phenomenon of a plant's bending and turning to follow the sun; he was the first modern mapmaker, and he devised an instrument for measuring the radius of the earth that gave him a figure only a few miles out of the way. He also devised a printing press that could be run by one man and which was a great improvement over Gutenberg's that required several men to operate, thereby helping to make vast stores of knowledge more easily accessible to man.

In connection with his study of warfare, and perhaps inspiring it, some words of Leonardo's have come down to us with as prophetic a ring to them as some of his inventions. He wrote: "When besieged by ambitious tyrants I find a means of offense and defense in order to preserve the chief gift of nature, which is liberty."

If Leonardo were to visit our world today, it is quite possible that he would find us easy to understand.
